The New Jersey Science Convention (www.njscienceconvention.org) will be hosting its 41st Annual Convention on October 24, 25, 2017 at the Princeton Marriott Forrester in Princeton, NJ. For the past 40 years this convention has provided the best professional development and science education information to thousands of NJ teachers. For NJSC 2017 we anticipate more than 160 presentations and 900 attendees. The New Jersey Science Convention is the only local science-based professional development opportunity for NJ K-12 classroom teachers.

NJSC 2017 represents an exceptional opportunity for teachers to experience interactive and hands on professional development focusing on Next Generation Science Standards (NGSS), effective classroom instruction, integration of technology, and the latest information on classroom resources. In addition to presentations by experienced classroom teachers, NJSC 2017 will also host presentations by NJDOE and college professors along with national speakers and presenters. The venue provides a level of interaction that allows teachers to connect with colleagues from schools all over New Jersey and maintain on going collaboration. With the continuing implementation of NGSS, the NJ Science Convention provides K-12 teachers with professional development that supports the type of science teaching needed to prepare students for a competitive global society.

The members of the NJ Science Convention Steering Committee encourage districts to support their teachers by providing the opportunity for them to participate in NJSC 2017. Teachers who attend return to their students energized with new and exciting ideas, instructional techniques, and a better understanding of the new science standards. See you in October!

If you have any questions, please contact either of the Executive Co-Chairs.

Sincerely,

Nancy Evans Bennett (nancyevansbennett@comcast.net)
